Dissertation Manual

It paginates according to University requirements and can be used to generate the Table of Contents, format the margins, etc. Choose the one appropriate to your dissertation e.g., with or without notice of copyright. When using the Dissertation Template, all italicized notes must be deleted and the highlighted text must be personalized. Be sure to remove the grey shading used in the template to indicate fields where information must be entered. The Dissertation Template and a version for Wharton Doctoral Dissertations is available below. If you choose to create your own document, rather than use the Dissertation Template, be sure to follow the guidelines below very carefully. Nothing may appear in the margin area. Headings may be larger. For enhanced screen readability, use Arial 10pt, Courier New 10pt, Georgia 11pt, Times New Roman 12 pt, or Verdana 10pt font. For footnotes, figures, citations, charts and graphs, a font of 8 point or larger should be used. Italic type may be used for quotations, words in a foreign language, occasional emphasis, or book titles. The title page is counted as page i, and the copyright page if there is one as pageii, but do not print the page numbers on either of these two pages e.g., in a dissertation with a copyright notice, the first numbered page is iii; in a dissertation without a copyright notice, the first numbered page is ii. For the text, use Arabic numbers 1, 2, 3, 4, 5,. starting with page 1 the first page of the text itself. These may be placed either at the top or the bottom of the page. If you use footnotes, it is recommended that you print page numbers at the page top. Do not print page numbers, footnotes, or anything else in the margins. Check pagination carefully. Do not include blank pages. All pages must have a page number and be accounted for. All words count towards the total.http://www.kwiaciarnia-eden.pl/userfiles/canon-dc210a-manual.xml

The abstract, which is normally a single paragraph, consists of four parts the statement of the problem; the procedure and methods used to investigate the problem; the results of the investigation; and the conclusions. The abstract is published online by ProQuest in "Dissertation Abstracts International," providing information to interested readers about the general content of the dissertation. The abstract is doublespaced. If you have both a supervisor and cosupervisor, list the cosupervisor's name on the line beneath the supervisor's. Do not include any titles e.g. "Supervisor" or "Advisor", as this is indicated by the placement of the names. The names and faculty titles rank and department of the Dissertation Committee members should be listed on the Title Page their signatures are not necessary. If you want to use a format for your name that differs from the current name in the Penn In Touch System e.g., a married name, or a full middle name rather than a middle initial, contact the Registrar's Office and provide the necessary documentation to make that change. A student may have both a Dissertation Supervisor and a Dissertation CoSupervisor, or two Dissertation CoSupervisors, if that responsibility was shared equally. These students should use the special Romance Languages or Wharton Dissertation Templates. However, the author of the dissertation owns and retains the copyright in the dissertation, without further registration formalities see page 19 for more discussion of copyright options. If you choose to include a copyright notice in your manuscript, place it on a separate page immediately following the Title Page.Footnotes at the bottom of a page should be numbered continuously throughout the dissertation. Endnotes at the end of a chapter are numbered separately for each chapter i.e., the first note of each chapter will always be numbered "1".http://amoosetracksmanor.com/userfiles/canon-dc310-dvd-camcorder-manual.xml

A bottomofthepage footnote must begin on the same page as the text to which it refers, but it may continue on a following page if necessary. Nothing may appear in the margin area. It may be a single alphabetical list by chapters, or an alphabetical list by authors for subject and class of publications. Page numbers in the bibliography continue the pagination of the text; do not number the bibliography separately. Follow the instructions in ETD Administrator for attaching supplementary files. Submit the Permission Letter as a Supplemental File in ETD Administrator. Name the file "Permission Letter Do Not Publish." Please see the word version above for more information. APA Guidelines Dissertation clearance means not only successful defense, but completion of any required revisions and submission of the dissertation in its final form to the University library. Ensure you are meeting deadlines relevant to DEX and related fees. Schedule this appointment at least seven business days in advance. When you meet with the dissertation clearance representative, bring the following two items Scanned or faxed copies of original signatures are acceptable. This review does not include proofreading. Make the changes and reupload. Repeat until all necessary revisions have been made and the library approves the format. Allow three business days for review of any revised, reuploaded version of the manuscript. The time frame for completing the entire clearance process will vary depending on the time of year e.g., allow more time as graduation or other due dates approach, the extensiveness of problems, responsiveness of the student to initial feedback, etc. You must work with them separately from Alliant. We do not request copies on your behalf. It will be updated as needed.

The most important resource the library offers is your college's research librarian. You can find contact information and helpful research tips Open access to etheses and edissertations ETDs benefit graduate students, as research can be shared with prospective or current employers, a valuable career tool. Open access makes research accessible to a global audience and has potential for increased use and higher impact of your work. Students can incorporate interactive features such as multimedia, hyperlinks, and supplemental files by using various forms of creative scholarship. The "Things to Think About Before Writing the Thesis or Dissertation" provides helpful suggestions about how to start the formatting before you start writing. Presetting your formatting will ease formattinginduced frustrations in the longterm. The "Paperwork to Complete Your Master's Defense and Degree Program" and "Paperwork to Complete Your Master's Defense and Degree Program" help with concerns about making sure all paperwork has been turned in when it should be. Finally, check the graduation and submission deadlines for the semester you wish to graduate. Make sure you submit your graduation application, defend, submit, and upload your thesis or dissertation on or before the listed deadline. Reading it will help to answer questions about whether the theses or dissertation is collaborative it is not, how to choose a style guide, who is responsible for judging the acceptability of the thesis or dissertation, and so forth. Please read if you are planning on incorporating such material into your theses or dissertation. Simply click on the hyperlink and it will lead to a pdf. The sections are presented in the order of how the material must be presented in your document. We recommend that students compare their document to this checklist prior to Graduate College format review.

Students may consider it because they want the public record to show they own the work's copyright; they want a certificate of registration; or because in successful litigation, works that are registered with the U.S. Copyright Office may be eligible for attorney's fees and statutory damage. Answers to frequently asked copyright questions on the FAQs page. This page is optional, but encouraged, for students who do not register a copyright. This is the format required for when you submit your document thesis or dissertation to the Graduate College for review. A copy of the similarity report must be submitted to the student's advisory committee at the time of the final defense, and it will be taken into account when determining the outcome of the defense. If the student passes their defense, the report shall be attached to the Culminating Experience Results form before submission to the Graduate College. The ETD center was launched in 2001 as an online repository for master's theses and doctoral dissertations produced by students studying at Ohio institutions. Theses and dissertations submitted for Fall Quarter 2006 and beyond must be deposited with OhioLINK and filed as ETD's on OhioLINK's servers. This handbook is basically a guide to format, not an exhaustive guide to style or to the process of developing and writing a thesis. Individual departments or programs may stipulate additional requirements, and, in matters of format, style, and procedure not specified in this handbook, students should seek the advice of their thesis directors.

For matters not specified by this handbook, or by departments, you should consult the latest edition of A Manual for Writers of Term Papers, Theses, and Dissertations by Kate L. Turabian. It should be followed when departments do not specify a style manual. Other manuals can also be used, such as the American Psychological Association APA Publication Manual, The Modern Language Association of America MLA Handbook for Writers of Research Papers, the Chicago Manual of Style, etc. All of these manuals are available as library reference materials or they may be purchased at most bookstores. Also, the University Writing Center 031 Dunbar Library sells reasonably priced minimanuals, which provide basic format and citation information for APA and MLA styles. The important point to remember is that the thesis must be consistent in both the style employed and the format selected.This review is intended to minimize the likelihood of thesis rejection after the deposit deadline. However, it in no way guarantees the acceptability of the final copy. To allow ample time for completing the final deposit copy, you are advised to arrange for a format check well in advance of the deposit deadline. Format checks will be done as soon as possible, but please allow at least two 2 days for completion. One copy of the PDF thesis must be deposited at the OhioLINK ETD Center by going to not later than 30 days after the end of the semester in which the degree will be granted due dates are published by the Graduate School and distributed to the departments and program offices. This final copy should follow the form prescribed in this handbook and should be carefully produced, free of errors in style, mechanics, and format You will be asked to create a user account and then provide identifying information about yourself, your department, and your ETD, and then you will be permitted to upload your pdf thesis to the OhioLINK site.

If you have technical questions about putting your ETD together, converting it to a pdf document, or submitting it to OhioLINK, you should visit the Student Technology Assistance Center STAC, 240 Paul Laurence Dunbar Library, telephone 937 7752656 for help and assistance. STAC's facilities are modern and uptodate, its staff is helpful and professional, its hours of operation offer much flexibility, and its services are free. The ETD cannot be approved until the Graduate School receives the signed thesis approval page. The Graduate School reserves the right to refuse, for final deposit, any thesis that does not meet these requirements. Your final copy must be approved and signed by the Dean of the Graduate School before your degree will be posted to your academic record. They are also responsible for making these procedures and regulations known to you. The signatures of your thesis committee members on the approval sheet certify that the content of your thesis meets an acceptable standard of scholarship and reflects a level of research, originality, and writing style appropriate for masters and doctoral candidates. It is the departments responsibility to ensure that all committee members have appropriate graduate faculty status. You have the ultimate responsibility for the content, scholarship, and style of your thesis, and for maintaining a high standard of written expression. If you need editorial assistance, you are responsible for securing it. Your thesis director and advisory committee members will work with you on thesis content and scholarship standards. While they may also help you in the composition and construction of the thesis document itself, please remember that proofreading and other editorial chores are not the duty of your thesis advisors. Submission and retrieval of thesis format check documents at the Graduate School, as well as mailing costs, when necessary, are also student responsibilities.

Theses which do not follow the prescribed order will be rejected for improper format. Your name should be given in full and in all capital letters and must be followed by previous degrees. The date at the bottom of the page should indicate the year in which your degree will be conferred. The title should clearly describe the contents of the thesis. If possible, word substitutes should be used for formulas, symbols, superscripts, Greek letters, and so on. If you are interested in applying to copyright your thesis or dissertation, you should visit the U.S. Copyright Offices official Website for information and downloading forms. See sample copyright page at Appendix L. In this case, the ETD is placed on a secure OhioLINK server. It is not released to an Ohio LINK public server until approved by the University. Approval sheets are to be prepared by the students and are not supplied by the Graduate School. The approval sheets may be duplicated, but all signatures on them must be originals. The approval sheet should conform to the sample in Appendix B Masters or Appendix M Doctoral. You may submit additional copies of the approval sheet for the Graduate Deans signature which can be returned to you, as needed. You must come to the Graduate School to reclaim approval sheets, as they will not be forwarded to you. The approval sheet in the electronic file should have printed names see sample approval sheets at Appendices B and M but no signatures. The copy delivered to and retained by the Graduate School must be signed; the copy sent to OhioLINK with your ETD must not be signed. Doctoral dissertation abstracts should not exceed 350 words. Masters thesis abstracts should not exceed 150 words. For the format, see the sample in Appendix C. The sample table of contents, list of figures, and list of tables in Appendices D, E, and F, respectively, provide examples of suitable formats for those parts of the thesis.

Appendix G provides a suitable sample format for the text of your thesis. Appendix H provides a sample thesis appendix. Appendix I provides a sample bibliography. While Appendix J represents one approach, please note that lists of References or Literature Cited formats differ among various scientific fields. You should check with your thesis advisor, or refer to one of the standardized thesis preparation manuals for the format which is appropriate to your academic field. Care should be taken to maintain consistency of style and format throughout the thesis. Supplementary materials printouts, tables, photographs, questionnaires, etc. must also meet these margin requirements. Spacing must be consistent throughout. See Appendix G for an example of the recommended layout and spacing for chapter titles, subheadings, etc. The title page and the approval sheet are counted as preliminary pages, but they are not to be numbered.Starting with the first page of the text, or body of the thesis, the remaining pages of the thesis including the bibliography and appendices are numbered consecutively in Arabic numerals i.e., 1, 2, 3, etc., starting with page number 1 on the first page of the text.You should view these samples as guidelines to the appropriate style and format for your thesis. Appendices A through F and K through M are samples of a standardized Wright State University format which should be followed, in all particulars, when preparing your thesis. The text of your thesis should conform to the Sample Format for Text Appendix G in terms of pagination, spacing, and structure. The appendices and bibliography or references should conform to the samples at Appendices H, I, and J. Footnoting and the displaying of tables and figures may vary, depending on the style manual used or recommended by your department or program e.g., Turabian, APA, MLA, Chicago, etc.. Dayton, OH 45435 USA 9377751000. The University has acquired an enterprisewide license for Zoom.

If you have not received an invitation from Fordham IT to sign up for your Zoom account, please contact Fordham IT as soon as possible at 7188173999 to activate and utilize your account. Exceptions to this must be requested in advance and will be subject to Deans approval. If a document requires a signature, it must be submitted in an email sent from the senders fordham.edu account. The defense paperwork will be made available on the GSAS website by Monday, as writable pdfs with the ability to add electronic signature. Click on the signature area to receive instructions regarding how to set up an electronic signature. The form will be signed on the committee members behalf by the Deans office. Fordham is my school. TM. Realtime, chat reference service is provided by reference staff from various academic libraries. UC Irvine librarians will follow up with additional information if needed. Theses and dissertations may be submitted electronically via ProQuest , or on paper; electronic submission best serves the majority of our graduate students and is highly encouraged. In addition to providing detailed information about proper formatting, the manual details the submission process and provides sample pages and templates. How to request a critique depends on proximity to the September 9th filing deadline Please plan accordingly; we respond to questions as they come in and cannot rush or expedite any reviews. The slide deck from previous workshops is available to view here, complete with speaker notes. Browns electronic theses and dissertation ETD system was developed by the Graduate School and the University Library and launched in 2008. The system collects and archives final dissertations as textbased PDF files. Electronic dissertations submitted through the ETD will appear in the Librarys discovery service and in the Brown digital repository. A request to restrict download access to a dissertation has an initial twoyear window from the time the degree is conferred.

Guidelines associated with restricted dissertation access are Requests for additional twoyear restrictions should be made to the Graduate School. To use the ETD system, doctoral candidates must possess a valid username and password for accessing Brown's computer network.Deadline September 11, 2020 Deadline January 15, 2021 Deadline April 1, 2021 See Submission of the Final Copy for important clarifications regarding the final submission process. Students may file their dissertations at any time of the year in advance of the filing deadline. Students may choose to request a Certificate of Completion to show that they have completed all degree requirements before beginning a position, as faculty or postdoctoral fellow, for example. See details below under Certificate of Completion. Students must file before the first day of classes in semester II in order to avoid being charged the tuition and fees for semester II. At least two weeks prior to the final examination or defense, candidates must provide the department manager with the appropriate dissertation defense information so the dissertation defense information form can be completed and returned to the Graduate School. Candidates must submit final copies of their dissertations electronically. The signature page should bear the signatures of the dissertation director and all readers. The typed names of the director and readers must appear under their signature lines. Electronic signatures are acceptable. An unsigned copy of the signature page should be uploaded to ETD system. All text should be doublespaced, except for block quotations, captions, long headings, and footnotes. All these should be singlespaced with a blank line between items. The number should not appear on the title page or the copyright page but, these pages are assigned numbers and are included in the pagination.

Preliminary pages are numbered with lower case roman numerals, centered at the foot of the page, threefourths of an inch from the bottom edge. The title page counts as page i but the number does not appear on the page. The remainder of the dissertation is numbered with Arabic numerals beginning with 1. The preliminary pages must appear in the following order The preliminary pages should appear in this order but not necessarily with the page numbers shown above. Use them only as appropriate to indicate major sections of the thesis e.g., INTRODUCTION, CHAPTER 1, BIBLIOGRAPHY. They should be centered and placed two inches from the top of the paper in uppercase type. Please do not include date or place of birth or phone numbers. The abstract should, in a concise manner, present the problem of the dissertation, discuss the materials and procedure or methods used, and state the results or conclusions. Mathematical formulas, diagrams, and other illustrative materials should be avoided. The abstract should not be part of the dissertation itself nor should it be included in the table of contents. The abstract should be presented in two unnumbered loose copies. It should be headed as follows The abstract should be doublespaced and may not exceed 350 words maximum 2,450 typewritten characters — including spaces and punctuation — about 70 characters per line with a maximum of 35 lines. Dissertations may require revision after their original presentation if it is determined by the Graduate School that the dissertation does not conform to the standards articulated above. The need for such revisions is not grounds for a deadline extension. If a dissertation is determined to be defective after the deadline, the Graduate School may refuse to confer a students degree.The online submission system will send notifications when each document has been received and approved by the Graduate School. Since 1954, the Graduate School has required that dissertations be published.

In 1985, the Graduate Council reaffirmed that decision and approved the following policy Six months will be allowed for the clearing of a patent. Otherwise, the name that will appear on the diploma and in the Commencement program, and under which the Library will catalog the dissertation, is the name under which the candidate is officially registered. Any request for a change of registered name should be addressed to the Office of the Registrar and accompanied by supporting legal documentation, such as a court order, marriage license, passport, driver's license, or social security card. Email Our People Introduction This page assists graduate students in successfully creating and depositing their dissertation or thesis. While these guidelines provide a detailed description of thesis and dissertation formatting, they also serve as a general discussion of how to construct the document and how to prevent common formatting mistakes. All guidelines are approved by the Graduate Council and can be modified at any time however the Graduate School will ensure the changes are clearly communicated to the faculty and students. Choosing a Style The student must choose a style for the document early in their graduate career. Style refers to the layout of text, paragraphs, tables and legends, as well as the formatting and layout of cited literature. Any published style guideline may be followed; however, it is customary for particular disciplines to write using particular styles. For example, many workers in the humanities use the style guidelines of the American Psychological Association or follow The Chicago Manual of Style. Scientific and professional societies vary widely in the approved format, any of which may be suitable here. Some advisers may not necessarily state a style preference while others require a particular style. Students are obligated to follow a particular style if required by their graduate adviser.

If a graduate adviser requires a particular style, the adviser must provide sufficiently detailed guidelines to the student. If the graduate adviser does not require a particular style, the student is urged to select from the styles listed above or choose a style of a journal within the discipline. Often, journals will have "Instructions to Authors" at their website which succinctly states style and formatting rules. Often style guidelines do not exhaustively address all of the format considerations faced by an author. If this occurs, the student must arbitrarily choose a format perhaps consulting a different style guideline then consistently follow that choice for the rest of the document. For example, what do the chosen style guidelines say in regard to placement of page numbers on landscaped pages. If the chosen guidelines are silent, then one does not know what is correct. In this case the student must arbitrarily decide where to place the page number and then place all subsequent page numbers of landscapes pages consistently in the same location. The font size of headings, subheadings, etc.Size of symbols and mathematical formula may also vary from 12 pt where necessary. Exceptions may include inset quotations, footnotes, tabular forms, and the bibliography, as dictated by the specific style guidelines. Text should be leftjustified and paragraphs should be tab indented. Without exception, all page numerals should be placed on the top righthand corner of the page. Page numerals may appear within the 1 inch margins. Typically, default settings of page numeral placement of word processors are acceptable. The front matter consists of all sections preceding the narrative and should be numbered using lower case roman numerals. The first page considered for numbering, though NOT numbered, is the title page. The Acceptance page is the second page of the document but the first page to be numbered ii.
